To Whom it May Concern,

Canary employed Shreyas Hirday for an internship with our Mobile Team over the summer of 2015. He was tasked with adding features to our Android application ("app") which would interact with our Canary device over Bluetooth Low Energy (BLE).

As a member of the Embedded Team, I was responsible for the device-side of the features, and so worked directly with Mr. Hirday to design, implement, and integrate the features.

Mr. Hirday went beyond the app development requirements of the position, drilling down into the details of the BLE protocol, and considering error handling and advanced use cases. Mr. Hirday worked diligently to produce complete and working prototypes by the end of his internship. It was a pleasure to work with someone as energetic, curious and determined as Shreyas Hirday.

Sincerely,

Dan Langlois
Senior Embedded Software Engineer
